Kudzu Studio
art classes for children

In this lunchtime art program, children will have the opportunity to explore a wide variety of art mediums while gaining an understanding on how art can be used to highlight social cause.

Focusing on species at risk, children will work on open-ended art projects that include watercolor, scratchboard, clay, printmaking, acrylic painting and more.

Children will work on observational skills; learn both hard and soft art skills to help them gain confidence in expressing themselves visually while having fun in a nurturing environment.

Jeri Engen has been teaching art to children for 15 years. Currently working through North Vancouver Community Arts Council, Seymour Art Gallery, Vancouver Art Gallery school program and running private art classes in Lynn Valley at Kudzu Studio, she is excited to be working with the Montroyal School community this fall.
